15th Sunday in Ordinary Time July 12, 2015

First Reading: Amos 7:12-15
Psalm 85 "Lord, let us see your kindness,
And grant us your salvation".
Second Reading: Ephesians 1:3-14
Gospel: Mark 6:7-13

When Jesus sent out the Twelve in the Gospel, he didn't equip them with very much, just a walking stick, the clothes on their back, and a pair of sandals. For the rest they had to depend on God. Yet they had great success on their mission. Perhaps one lesson we can learn is dependence on God. Listen to God's holy word, keeping in mind how we can depend more on God.

Keep us in mind... while you visit Garage Sales this summer! Please be on the lookout for 3 ring binders in good condition - size 1/2" to 1.5" and loose-leaf paper for our Religious Education program.

A Note From Father Victor ....

July 5, 2015

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

There is a very good reason to celebrate with thanksgiving and praise to a God who gave us the gift of freedom. Freedom that was costly earned and enjoyed for centuries. In the same way Jesus paid the price to free humankind from the slavery of sin. This weekend we celebrate our gift of freedom as children of God and as a country.

But it was not without a price. There is a very significant relationship between redemption and sacrifice. For Paul to experience the power of God he was not spared from adversities and challenges. It was, as he said it, in his weakness that he found the strength and power of God". IN the midst of his storm he has overcome fear and weakness. "My grace is enough for you", God said to Paul. It was in the midst of hardship that he found the strength of God. Indeed with God "we shall overcome!" Redemption came with a price. Jesus had to sacrifice his life to gain us redemption.

Our ancestors paid the price for freedom. Even today, many have sacrificed their lives so that the rest may continue to enjoy the God given gift of freedom. Even in the midst of fear and intimidation God continues to let us know he is with us. Not that he will take away all sufferings but that his grace will be sufficient for us to overcome them. The power of God can work in us. All we need is to have faith in him. Let us continue to work hard, keep the discipline, be patient and keep the faith.

In our parish let us continue to work to strengthen our community. Let us continue to build up the confidence in our faith and recognize how each one of us is a building stone to in building God's kingdom, making it a reality in our midst.

Keep Praying!

"The time to find global solutions is running out ... there is a clear, definitive and ineluctable ethical imperative to act." – Pope Francis

Last week Pope Francis released an encyclical that addresses the issue of climate change...and a lot more. In the encyclical, Pope Francis offers moral guidance on the responsibility we all have to care for each other and care for God's creation.

Background

Entitled Laudato Sii (Praised Be You), the papal encyclical released Thursday, June 18, is taking its title from a recurring line in St. Francis of Assisi's "Canticle of the Sun" and is subtitled, "Sulla cura della casa comune" (On the care of the common home).

The themes of the encyclical should give us a lot to chew on, especially in relation to our:

1. individual responsibility as a Christian to care for God's creation
2. collective responsibility for creating principled public policy that supports good stewardship, human dignity, and the common good

To dismiss this teaching document as merely a political statement is to ignore the central point, namely, that if you love God, you will love what He has created.

Papal encyclicals are authoritative, and are part of the authentic magisterium of the Roman Pontiff. According to Vatican II's Dogmatic Constitution on the Church (No. 25):

"[R]eligious submission of mind and will must be shown in a special way to the authentic magisterium of the Roman Pontiff, even when he is not speaking ex cathedra; that is, it must be shown in such a way that his supreme magisterium is acknowledged with reverence, the judgments made by him are sincerely adhered to, according to his manifest mind and will."

5 encyclical themes

Integral ecology: human ecology and natural ecology Integral ecology means that "natural ecology"--the environment, our natural resources, the precious gift of Creation--is decidedly and inextricably linked to "human ecology"--how we respect and defend life, treat one another, regard the poor, structure our economic decisions and policy, mold and shape our society.

Throwaway culture: Society increasingly has an attitude of tossing aside anything and everyone we do not find useful. We are not only talking about how we weigh the merits of paper versus plastic, we are also talking about the unborn, the sick, and the elderly.

Care for Creation We are called to care for and steward creation--a gift from God intended to nurture and sustain us and future generations, even as we cultivate it and rely on it. We have tilled too much and kept too little.

Climate change The loss of biodiversity and deforestation are already showing the devastating effects in terrible cataclysms from which the poor and vulnerable suffer most.

Building a culture of solidarity and encounter In contrast to an economy of exclusion and a culture of waste, we need to collectively protect each other and the natural environment, re-examining our lifestyles and consumer choices.
